Mark Miskie, CEO of Arcus Medical, stated, "We are very excited about the opportunity to work with Augusta Medical and offer a complete solution to men suffering from both erectile dysfunction and urinary incontinence. The combination of the finest vacuum therapy systems with the most innovative urinary management systems reflects both companies dedication towards the conservative and non-invasive treatment of such disorders which ensure a higher quality of life for those dealing with these issues."

The SUMS™ product will be formally introduced at the annual American Urological Association meeting being held in Anaheim, CA from May 19-24, 2007.
